CUBAN LEGATION TO BE VERY FINE

Interior Will Present a Thorough Cuban Effect.

SENOR GONZALES DE QUESEDA

First Minister to Washington from the New Republic is a Man of Extremely Interesting Personality. His Stride Equals Teddy's.

(Special Dispatch to The Times.) WASHINGTON, D. C., July 12.-Cuba is to have one of the handsomest of the Pan-American legations in Washington Senor Gonzales de Quesada, the minisler to the United States from Cuba, has transferred his flag from his temporary beadquarters at the Raleigh to the new building at 1005 Sixteenth Street, which is to be the permanent home of the Cuban legation, and comprises the only bit of property the new republic possesses within the boundaries of the Unitone of the handsomest residences in Washington. For sometime past it has been in thehands of the decorators, who have not yet finished their work. Senor Quesada has personally supervised much Quesada has personally supervised much of the work and he and Senora Quesada have spent much time in the choice of its furnishings. It is their desire that the interior of the legation shall present a thoroughly Cuban effect and to this end most of the draperies and bricabrac are being brought here from the island. A large neiture of President Es. island. A large picture of Fresident Es-trada Palma has a prominent place in the minister's study and throughout the

ly and with but the slightest accent.

Washington is well nigh a second home to Minister Quesada. He came here shortly after the Cuban revolution broke out, as the secretary of the "Cuban legation," as the little group of patriots who at that time comprised the Cuban junta were pleased to call themselves. Throughout the period of hostilities in Cuba Cupas da yas actively at were pleased to call themselves. Throughout the period of hostilities in Cuba, Senor de Quesada was actively at work in the United States endeavoring to arouse the sympathy of its people in the struggle of his country to gain release from the Spanish yoke. He made addresses in many of the large cities and contributed largely to the leading magazines, always taking for his theme "Cuba Libre" and how it could be obtained it was in his relation with the Cuba Libre and now it could be obtained. It was in his relation with the Washington government, however, that Ecnor Quesada showed himself to be a capable diplomat, and the tact with which he handled the affairs of the Cuban junta was largely influential in determining President Palma to select him for the most important post in the diplomatic service of the new republic, that of min-

DIFFERENT CIRCUMSTANCES, It is under very different circumstances that Quesada returns to Washington now when Spain, a when Spain, a when Spain, a when Spain, a spain to the United States, established autonomy in the island. Senor Montoro was tendered and accepted the leadership of the autonomist government, thereby bringing down upon himself the bitterest enmity from his countrymen. Later he was appointed one of Spain's commissioners on the joint commission formed by the United States and Spain to arrange for Spanish evacuation of the island. Since the establishment of the Euclidean Club, the most exclusive social organization in Washington, Ordinarily, members of the Diplomatic Ccrps are, ex-officio, members of the Melropolitan Club, There was a secret. tion, however, several years ago, when, is secretary of the Cuban Junta, Senor Cuesada applied for admission to the rlub, with the result that his application was disapproved. Whether he will care to make another effort to pass within the walls of the club is not known. It is not thought, however, in case he does, that any objection will be raised.

WILL TAKE NO VACATION.

Owing to the large number of matters

Owing to the large number of matters remanding immediate attention. Senor Quesada will not take a holiday this Quesada will not take a holiday this summer. His wife and children are comfort; bly ensconced in a summer cottage at Chevy Chase, near Washington, but the minister comes in every morning and spends the greater part of the day at his spends the greater part of the day at his legation, attending to diplomatic matters. For the past few weeks a large part of his time has been given to the negotiations with Secretary Hay bearing on the reciprocity treaty between the Inited States and Cuba, which it was thought President Roosevelt would send to Congress before that body adjourned. The treaty has been practically completed, though it will not be submitted to Congress until next winter. In the near Congress until next winter. In the near future Minister Quesada will take up with Fecretary Hay the negotiations for an ex-tradition treaty between the two Republies, that Cuba may not become dumping ground for criminals from the States, or vice versa.

Of great importance is the question of sovereignty of the Isle of Pines, shich, under the terms of the Platt amendment, was to be a matter for negotia-tion between the two governments. It is unlikely that Secretary Hay and Minister unlikely that Secretary Hay and Minister Cuesada will enter upon these negotia-licus before fall. Petitions, however, have already been presented from American residents, of whom there are a great many on the island, praying that the United States take the Isle of Pines under its protection and maintain order until a final settlement can be arranged. At present the Island is without a government and all the extensive improveernment, and all the extensive improve ments inaugurated by General Wood when he was Governor-General of Cuba have come to a standstill. Little doubt is felt that the United States will find a diplomatic excuse for adding this island to her territory. It is claimed that the elimate is salubrious, and already Americans have bought up large tracts of land on the island, anticipating that it will eventually become American terriwill eventually become American terri-tory. However, Minister Quesada may be depended upon to keep a sharp lookout for his country's interests in any negotiations that may occur, though it is not believed that wow will be at all stubborn in the settlement of the sovereingnity of the Isle of Pines in favor of the United States.

CUBAN LOAN. Senor Quesada does not share in the apprehension felt in other quarters about the ability of the Havana government to secure a loan of $9,000,000 for the purpose of relieving the financial strain the new government is being put to. Re-ferring to the reported refusal of the Havana bankers to float the Cuban temporary. He does not believe the President will encounter any great difficulty in effecting the loan.

Speaking of the internal condition of Cuba, the Minister said with pride today the order prevailing in his country since her release from the Spanish yoke four researched, head been better than four years ago had been better than that seen in the United States at a cor-responding period in her history. His clouded up, however, as he added:

"There is, I regret to say, great dis-tress among my people, which can only be relieved by a reciprocity arrange-ment between your Government and mine that will be of mutual advantage. ed States. The new legation was form-the customs receipts have continued as trly the home of Mrs. Claggett and is good as they were under American occupation, and no sign of decrease is evident. We are business people, and it remains for us to run the government upon what ever funds are available. If we have not $5,000,000 a year we will run it on $3,000,000 or even less. A reciprocity arrangement would, however, help us

It is understood that no objection will be raised by the Washington Govern-ment to President Palma's intention of effecting a $3,000,000 loan. Close watch, however, is being kept by the Washing-ton officials over the financial condition island. A large picture of President Estrada Palma has a prominent place in the infinister's study and throughout the legation are to be seen on the walls the faces of Cuban patriots who have the faces of Cuban patriots who have for "Cuba Libre."

In the mew republic, and any move which her officials may inaugurate calculated to injure her financially will be straightway blocked by the United States. For example, if it were the intention of the Hayana authorities to of "Cuba Libre."

INTERESTING PERSONALITY.

Senor Quesada is himself a most interesting personality. Somewhat under medium height, he is rather stockily put together, and with his rich, dark complexion and coal black hair and eyes end moustache he is readily recognized as a Cuban. A quick, nervous manner and an energetic stride that would almost leave our own "Teddy" behind are other characteristics of the new Cuban minister. He speaks English quite fluently and with but the slightest accent.

Washington is well nigh a second home article is incorporated in the Constitution, and, furthermore, the Cuban Congress is required to pass on all propositions for raising money.

BUT ONE ENVOY.

BUT ONE LNVOY.

President Palma's efforts to keep down the expenses of his government have met with the cordial sympathy of the Washington Govenrment, and it is not anticipated that any action of his will furnish cause for intervention by the United States. His latest economy is to be seen in the announcement of his intention to appoint but one Envoy Extraordinary and Minister Plenipotentiary to be seen in the announcement of the intention to appoint but one Envoy Extraordinary and Minister Plenipotentiary to Europe.

It is quite probable that this post will be given to Senor Rafael Montoro, and that he will establish his legation in Paris. In view of the former extreme unpopularity that Sonor Montoro incurred among his countrymen because of his attitude in the revolution, some surprise has been occasioned at the announcement that President Palma had selected him for so important a place, in the diplomatic service of the republic. Although an ardent advocate of "Cuba Libre," Senor Montoro for some reason did not take an active part in the revolution, and when Spain, as a concession to the United States, established autonomy in the island, Senor of the Choans generally the ablest financier in the island to-day. He is in every way fitted for so important a post and may be depended upon to safeguard the re-public's interests in the Old World.
